

A REFORM PDC BUSINESS PLATFORM COMPONENT

What is VDP?

Variable Data Printing (VDP) is a form design solution meant to provide users with the ability to personalize internal and external documents in an effort to increase overall efficiency, cut costs, and help transition your business towards a paperless future. FabSoft provides a great variety of document personalization services for businesses of any size.

The days of ordering pre-printed forms are gone—Reform VDP can print your necessary documents on regular printing paper. Implementation is simple as our software offers a high degree of compatibility with even some of the more outdated IT structures being used today. Reform VDP is able to receive data from any source and automatically populate previously designed forms instantaneously. These populated forms can then be sent electronically to further enhance your company's internal as well as external response times.

Reform VDP promotes paperless automation by including cutting-edge capabilities such as emailing, electronic archiving, faxing, printer routing, along with a host of document specific changes which can help improve the appearance of your documents and better streamline your workflows.
